“The Continuing Chronicles of Samira Weinstein”

Samira Weinstein, 19, is a thespian and musician currently based in Albany, NY. They are working toward a Bachelor's degree in Theater and furthermore plan to pursue a Master's degree in Music Education, to hone their craft. They've been performing live music in a variety of bands since age 13, being trained in classical and in Jazz; they've also participated in school and community theater, and aspire to run their own performance space.

They are quoted saying, “I would like for my passions to be my career. I have always seen art as holding up a mirror to society, and I use my art to comment on and critique the socio-political issues of the day and to bring catharsis to the people who experience my art. I sincerely love bringing people joy with all the effort I put into my art”, forming a symbiotic relationship with the audience.”

Being inspired by the art teachers they've had over the years had furthered their creativity and boosted their confidence, and Samira intend to offer youth the same encouragement and guidance toward their passions, in a safe and welcoming environment as their teachers always did for Samira.

Them being a poet, a playwright, and musical composer, it seems only appropriate to say, “the rest and the best is yet to be written”!

When in the course of human events it becomes nessecaryv for shhit to go down, you can talk to J diddy and my main boy, G washington to start a revolution up in these here colonies. Resprectly, King George, you can suck my metaphysical dick. I'm white and privileged and I happen to own a fuckton of slaves, but you won't hear that from my wife ha ha ha ha, nah bro but for realsies you can't keep treating the colonies with all your royal bullshit, pun intended. You're very annoying and you don't know it, but you have an std that is making you paranoid and stupid at the same time, and also your great great granddaughter is going to put brexit into order, so you've got that gounng for you. Also Gandhi and a couple of other things are going to happen, that will weaken your control over the word. So I think you should just quit while you're ahead, and so do my other peeps from the 13 colonies. Ima hand my quill over to my main jock, hancock, and have him sign, aight? Peace out, loser. (ha ha , you dork, you'll never see this coming. BYEEEE)
